CHAPTER CHATTER

By Doug Jones

Newsletter time again.we went to Reston to new member Justin Paul's apartment to do real shade tree mechanic work. The weather was perfect to work on a corvair. Justin had just bought his 1960 corvair a month or so before our meeting.

Ron Tumolo had worked with Justin just a week before the meeting on a generator light that would not go off. They had resolved the problem by installing a new generator.

The project of the day was to get the car to idle properly and run. The basic start was to find out how hot and strong the spark was. We also had to see if the motor was getting a good flow of fuel. The spark seemed to be a little weak. Darren looked at the points. Justin said that he had a new set of points installed and gapped. The fuel was a marginal prospect. The brain trusts decided to clean up the carburetors because Greg had the necessary gaskets to tackle that endeavor. The carbs came off and a clean-up process began. After the carbs were cleaned and reinstalled, the air fuel mixture was adjusted and the car started up.

The car still ran a little rough. The idle was adjusted and the air fuel mixture was readjusted while on the car. The little car finally started to run okay.

The next step was to take the car around the block. Justin, Darren, and I climbed in and took the car for a test spin. The little car coughed and sputtered. It didn't do very well. It didn't have much power. We barely made it home. It started getting late and people had to leave.

Darren and I decided that maybe the gas flow was not enough under a load. We thought that it might need a new or different fuel pump. There are defective fuel pumps running around. At that point, I needed to leave. Darren and I were the last to leave.

Mike, a newer member of the NVCC, showed up during our meeting. He read an extraordinary newsletter on line and decided to come out for our August meeting. Mike has acquired his father's old 1962 convertible and would like to get it roadworthy. He is thinking of hosting a meeting and would like to get us over to his place to work on his car. He brought some older pictures of his dad with the car.

This month's project will be to work on A.J.'s fuel problem. We'll be meeting in Fairfax Station at his brother's house. I look forward to seeing everyone there.and if possible, at a show or two during the month of September.
