

CORVAIR GREENBRIER SPORTS WAGON SERIES

*Here's unlimited versatility for loads of fun or cargo. The 1964 Corvair Greenbrier Sports Wagon comes in two models: Greenbrier and Greenbrier De Luxe. New hub caps and six new lustrous colors add to the fresh appearance. Greenbrier's rear-engine design stacks the power team weight over the rear wheels for tenacious traction in snow, mud, sand or ice. The new 95-hp Turbo-Air 164 engine with 3-Speed Synchro-Mesh transmission is standard on both models. Automatic Powerglide* or 4-Speed Synchro-Mesh* can be ordered. Regardless of the load, a big 175.5 cu. ft. of cargo area (almost twice the size of regular station wagons) handles it with ease. Big double doors at both rear and curbside, together with two wide-opening front doors, make loading almost a snap. Four-wheel independent suspension lets each wheel absorb its own bump with virtually no jounce to passengers or delicate cargo. Easy-care features include extended-life exhaust system.*

*Optional at extra cost.

INTERIORS

*The '64 Greenbrier Sports Wagon is neatly appointed to meet any occasion. A rich fawn interior comes on regular Greenbrier, while the De Luxe offers fawn, green, red or turquoise, color-keyed to the exterior enamel finish. Seats are thickly foam cushioned and, in regular Greenbrier, covered with striped woven fabric upholstery. Greenbrier De Luxe interior features newly styled expanded-vinyl-covered seats, all-vinyl sidewall panels and vinyl-coated floor mats; also cigarette lighter, dual sunshades, front armrests, rear ashtray, front and rear dome lights. Complementing the De Luxe interior is a harmonizing two-tone instrument panel and steering wheel with horn ring. With the convenient third seat,* nine people can relax in comfort. Options* such as transistorized radio, street-side doors and Custom Camper Unit can make every mile more of a motoring adventure.*
